

Commission publishes roadmap on Bisphenol A in food contact materials

26/11/2015

The European Commission published a Roadmap proposing five policy options for risk management measures on bisphenol A (BPA) in food contact materials and also provides an assessment of these options.

Next Steps (timeline is indicative):

- Beginning of 2016: The Commission will continue consulting stakeholders, Member States' Authorities, Third countries and other relevant parties on the proposed options;
- Mid-2016: The Commission is expected to propose a draft Regulation on Bisphenol A.

For more information on the proposed measures see the Roadmap which is available via this link:
