

“Southern African citrus reached a record volume of production in 2018”

Yesterday, Justin Chadwick, CEO of the Citrus Growers' Association (CGA), tweeted that Southern African citrus reached a record volume of product packed for export in 2018. The current figure exceeds 1.9 million tons (128 million cartons). With just 5 million cartons still to be packed (mostly oranges) the season will end up just shy of 2 million tons - another milestone.
